During this webcast, Dr. Jessica Pang will discuss the challenges related to deciding when and how to use benzodiazepines in daily practice.

She will also provide guidelines on the following aspects:

- how to take advantage of the physiologic effects of midazolam and diazepam; and,
- how to incorporate them into sedation and anesthesia protocols for small animal patients.

Join us as we review protocols and drug options for the sedation and anesthesia of small animal patients.

Presented by Jessica Pang
BSc (Hons), DVM, MVetSc

Dr. Pang completed her DVM, Master of Veterinary Science, and anesthesia residency at the Western College of Veterinary Medicine. After leaving WCVM, Dr. Pang practised in London, England as a small animal practitioner and anesthesia consultant. From 2010 to 2016, she was a research associate at UCVM. She spent the following three years as an anesthesia clinician in the Faculté de médecine vétérinaire at the Université de Montréal. Dr. Pang returned to Calgary in 2019 and currently works as a clinical instructor at UCVM, as lead anesthetist at Alberta Veterinary Dentistry, and as an anesthesia consultant.
